Congress Leaders Reported Split on Junket to England

Some Fear Trip Would Arouse Ire of Pre-War Isolationists

Washington, May 23—(AP)—Congressional leaders were reported divided today on whether to send ten senators and representatives of both parties to England for talks with parliament on war problems and peace aims.

A tentative invitation for the visit was laid before a group of senate and house leaders by an unnamed British spokesman at a secret conference at the Capitol yesterday.

Democrats were said to have given the idea general approval. However, senate Republican leader McNary and house Republican Leader Martin were reported somewhat skeptical about the wisdom of sending such a large delegation to Great Britain at this time.

A reported suggestion at the conference that the leaders of both houses be included among the five Republicans and five Democrats who would make the trip, probably in July, brought questions as to the effect of their absence on the progress of important legislation, particularly the tax bill now pending before the house ways and means committee.

Few expect house passage of this measure before late June, placing it before the senate finance committee for consideration in July.

Doubt Among Leaders

There was some doubt among leaders, it was said, whether an announcement of plans for such a conference might not draw the fire of senators who were critical of Great Britain and the British war effort before Pearl Harbor and who might regard such a trip as tending to shift the center of popular attention from Washington to London.

Those interested made it plain that no definite invitation had been issued in behalf of the British parliament or would be issued until congressional leaders determined.

Washington, May 23—(AP)—President Roosevelt said last night that the shipping situation was serious but that the submarine menace was being solved.

"We have been, we still are, confronted with a serious shortage of ships to carry the essentials of war," he said in a Maritime Day statement. "Submarines of the axis aggressors have taken a heavy toll."

The War Today!

(This daily feature, conducted by De Witt MacKenzie, Wide World war analyst is being written during his absence for a fortnight by Fred Vanderschmidt.)

(Telegraph Special Service)

A surprising amount of pleasant but vague talk about how the war "is going to end this year" provided the background for President Roosevelt's cautionary remarks of yesterday to the effect that, on the contrary, it was going to be a long war.

As Roosevelt said, there was no special reason for this way of optimism. Apparently, however, it stemmed from a combination of the repulsion of the Japanese fleet in the Coral Sea, the preliminary reports on the Russian offensive before Kharkov, and on the "gloom offensive" which has come out of enemy Germany itself, in the speeches of Hitler, Goering & Co.

What has been overlooked by the optimists are these facts:

1. The Japanese fleet north of Australia remains an extremely sinister factor.

2. Th Red army's Kharkov offensive was a preventive military action, designed to weaken the power of the expected German offensive against the Caucasus which today appears to be in its developing stages, despite heavy German losses in material.

3. The Hitler-Goering lamentation.

Sacrificed

Great Lakes, Ill., May 23—(AP)—The trophy cases at the Great Lakes naval training station, filled with more than 100 loving cups, pennants and belts won by athletic teams and rowing crews during the past 20 years, were empty today.

The trophies are to be sacrificed for metal vital to national armament and will be melted down and the brass, tin, copper, gold and silver derived from them will be used in armament production.

A spokesman said the decision to sacrifice the trophies and other metal ornaments of vital war value was reached by naval officers "after lengthy consideration."

They decided the worth of the metals to armament outweighed the sentimental value attached to the trophies.

Weight of the collection was estimated at approximately one ton.

Uncle Sam's Women Soldiers Will Be Chic in Uniforms

War Department Selects Dress for Members of WAAC; of Khaki

(Pictures Above)

Washington, May 23—(AP)—Members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps will be chic in khaki.

The war department has picked the uniforms, and aside from silks and satins there's quite a variety of materials.

Skirts will prevail in all cases. For summer there's khaki cotton twill and gabardine. For winter there's olive drab covert cloth.

The hosiery will be cotton and rayon, but no one in the department had a word to say about the underthings, either summer or winter.

A WAAC officer in the winter-time will wear a single-breasted, four-button dark olive drab jacket of covert cloth and a six panel flared skirt of light or dark olive.

Mystery Broadcast Threatens Cubans

Havana, Cuba, May 23—(AP)—A mysterious broadcaster, who identified himself as the commander of a German submarine lying only a mile and one-half off the Havana waterfront, promised the Cuban people last night they were in for "a surprise."

Havana newspapers reported today.

"This is the second time we have visited Havana and very soon we will give you a surprise," the broadcaster was quoted as saying in perfect Spanish after giving his identity and the location of his vessel.

"It isn't fair," he added, "that while the German people are suffering the consequences of the British blockade with the support of the United States, American girls should be enjoying themselves on the beaches."

"Our submarines will take care of that."

The broadcaster was said to have gone off the air after making this threat.

Washington, May 23—(AP)—Joachim Johansen, Vineland, N. J., first mate of a Honduran cargo vessel shelled and abandoned in the Gulf of Mexico, boarded the submarine which attacked his ship and reviled the commander for "injustice."

The attack—ninth officially announced since submarines started operating in the Gulf—took place May 15. One crewman was killed in the shelling and two officers and two other crewmen injured. All others were picked up from lifeboats by a fishing vessel. The navy announced the incident yesterday.

The submarine, ship crewmen said, was apparently of Italian design but manned by Germans.

The ship sighted the submarine about four miles distant in mid-afternoon. The submersible gave chase, and after about an hour overhauled the ship and opened fire with a light gun and machine guns.

Harry Schlesinger of New Orleans, radio operator of the ship, flashed calls for help repeatedly during the chase and attack, which ended when the ship's captain ordered the ship abandoned.

After the crewmen had taken to lifeboats, the submarine officers ordered the boat in which Johansen was riding alongside. Schlesinger said when the boat neared the submarine, Johansen jumped to the sub's deck and "when he got aboard the sub he said 'This is an injustice. You killed men on that ship!'"

Schlesinger said the submarine commander attempted to take over the lifeboat to carry explosives to the ship to sink it, indicating that the submarine had no torpedoes. Johansen, Schlesinger said, argued at length with the submarine officers to stall for time and get help.

The submarine officers suddenly abandoned their plan and cast loose the life boat. Johansen jumped into it, and the submarine crash dived.

SMALL HOMES STORES APARTMENTS MODERNIZATION

by PAUL T. HAAGEN A.I.A.

STORAGE PLACES

By Paul T. Haagen

As the home of today becomes smaller and more compact, it becomes more evident to those of us who are in the building field that storage space must become more adequate. Closets and places in which winter or summer clothing, blankets, draperies, etc., may be stored must be provided for somewhere in the house. There must be cupboards and shelves for linen, china, silver, and all the things that constitute the niceties of living. Card tables, games, books, magazines, rubbers, galoshes, golf bags, etc., these items all require a storage space.

Sometimes some of these things may be stored in the attic but the closets there should be carefully and tightly built and there should be quick and direct access to this space. This may be arranged by means of a disappearing stairway that is built into the ceiling of the second floor. Closets for hanging clothes need not be over 24 inches. Winter draperies that may be taken down in the summer should have closets in which they run across the closet over which the draperies may be hung.

As a rule, the shallow closet is considered the most economical, and two doors usually are more convenient than one.

Cedar closets do not give the maximum protection to clothes because cedar soon dries out. Any closet in which clothing is stored must be very tight against moths and vermin; it should be well ventilated.

It is wise to store clothing put away for the summer in sealed, moth-proof bags.

Another type of closet that is most important is for the outdoor clothing which should be placed near the entrance door. A linen closet should have ample space and wide and deep shelves for storage of linen and blankets and bedding. Also a cleaning closet which should be located conveniently for the housewife so that vacuum cleaners, dusting mops, brooms, etc., together with cleaning liquids and soaps, may be placed therein. Who does not know of a house—many houses—housewife so that vacuum cleaners, does not have a suitable storage place?

One of the niceties of closets where there are children is to have the hooks placed at a lower level so that the child can reach the hook on which to hang his own garments.

To get the most efficient closet arrangement in your home, it is advisable to make a schedule of all the things that must be stored in the household. Clothing, linens, trunks, luggage, toys, sports equipment, card tables, these are just a few of the items that must be considered.

WALL LINOLEUM

The wall linoleums that are on the market are much thinner than that used on floors. Yet of the same texture and patterns as those for floors. They are washable and waterproof, and because they are quite thin, they may be carried around corners and coves at the intersection of walls and floors.

Wall linoleum is hung by the same mechanic who lays the linoleum on the floor. The seams and joints must be proof against water.

CEILING LIGHTS

Nowadays one rarely finds lighting fixtures in the center of the ceiling room except in bedrooms, dining rooms and kitchens. But it is nice to be able to switch a light on as one enters a room, and your base plugs which service your lamps may be put on a switch just the same as a ceiling outlet. The switch is placed near the door so that you may easily turn the lamp on as you enter the room.

HEAT LOSSES

The windows in many houses are a source of much heat loss. The loss of heat passes through the glass from the inside to the outside. To overcome this, provide storm sash, one of the best things to do to save on the loss of heat from a house. Weather strips will prevent drafts from leaking in around the frame and sash.

Insulation is almost as important in the modern house as bath and furnace.

FIVE ROOM ENGLISH COTTAGE

MIRROR DOORS

Most women will welcome a full length mirror, and there is always a place in every home where such a mirror may be installed. A door is a good place to put such a mirror; a special door is not needed for a long mirror may be put directly over any door by fitting a wooden moulding around the mirror and attaching to the door. This moulding is made with a groove to fit over the edge of the mirror and any carpenter will be able to fit one in place. It is important, in putting a mirror on a door, to see that the mirror is not too heavy for the hinges on which the door swings. Otherwise the door may sag.

ALTERING LARGE KITCHEN

Large kitchens may be remodelled to include a dining alcove, pantry, powder room or lavatory, and at the same time the actual kitchen unit may be made more compact and practical. Changes of this type may help in the sale of a home and it will be much more convenient and stepsaving for the housewife.

MIRRORS

If you have a narrow space between two windows, a mirrored panel adds to the illusion of space and is quite decorative as well. It is possible also to place a small dressing table in front of it which with the window or draperies, adds to the pleasing effect.

LIGHT THE STAIRS

All stairways should be adequately lighted to prevent bad falls and other accidents.

WELL PLANNED KITCHEN

This charming colonial bungalow has a quaint porch from which we pass into the large living room. This room also offers dining space which separates the kitchen from the living room. The plans permit the utilizing of all space to the fullest possible extent. In the kitchen, for instance, no serviceability has been sacrificed.—National Plane Service, Inc.

BUILT IN FURNITURE

Book shelves, closets and cabinets that are built into the house are becoming more popular every day. They are not only added conveniences but they are additional decoration when painted to harmonize with walls or woodwork. Built in accessories may be found in most of the large stores in the country in unfinished furniture, and may be built into the home just as they come from the store and then refinished as the interior is done.

PATCHING PLASTER

Plaster cracks which need patching may be filled with plaster of Paris, but plaster of Paris sets so quickly that it is often difficult to make a smooth patch. It has been found that wood fibre gypsum plaster will be equally as satisfactory in making the patch and much easier to use.

ROMAN STRIPE KITCHEN

An unusual motif, giving a crisp note to a small kitchen, is sounded by the gayest of Roman stripes. On either side of the window with its Venetian blinds painted white like the woodwork—hang finely cross-striped draperies of bright hues. A set-in border of five stripes—Chinese red, white, blue, yellow and green divides the green marbled linoleum center from its black border. The window chairs and drop leaf table are enameled with white and a narrower border of Chinese red runs the length of the table leaves. The walls and woodwork are painted a gleaming white and the breakfast seat has green cushions.

STAIR STEPS

A narrow strip of white paint along the edge of each tread on a dark staircase will increase the visibility of each step and many an accident may be prevented.

TRANSPORTATION AND YOUR HOME

In selecting the property on which to build your home, it is quite important that transportation should be very carefully considered. Not only should the community have all the things that you as a home owner would like it to have in the way of homes, schools, shopping facilities, etc., but it should be serviced by regular bus, trolley or interurban lines so that ready access to places of employment, recreation centers, etc., may be had.

In addition to this matter of ready and prompt transportation, cost must be taken into account, in relation to all the members of the family. Costs of transportation may become a burdensome expense if not considered in your original plans.

Insulation for Summer Comfort

While we have paid a great deal of attention to the economic value of insulation, due to the saving of fuel in winter, we must recognize that much insulation is purchased purely for the sake of summer comfort. The economic value of comfort, though very real, cannot be reduced readily to dollars and cents, therefore, cannot be expressed in the usual economic terms.

However, insulation contributes greatly to genuine summer comfort, provided the right type and style is chosen, and certain rules of ventilation are carefully followed.

If you have ever climbed on the roof of a dwelling in summer, you have experienced the surprisingly high temperatures which occur on the shingles or slate. These temperatures will run in the neighborhood of 140 degrees on warm, sunny days. As we are trying to keep the inside of the house at 70 degrees or thereabouts, we can appreciate that insulation for summer comfort is a very important use.

Actually the higher temperatures reached on roof structures than on side walls warrant the employment of considerably more insulation on the upper levels of your house than would be justified on purely economic grounds for winter fuel savings alone.

We would be glad to discuss your insulation problems at any time.

She: "Why?"

He: "It might get back to my wife."

Extra Summer Comfort in a New Screen-in Porch

Two Dixon home owners who lately have added much to the summer comfort of their homes are Arthur Vick of 910 S. Ottawa avenue and at the August Filipone home at 823 N. Dement avenue.

Screened in porches have been built for both of these homes and we would like to say that it adds very much to the appearance of these houses besides the extra comfort that will be received during the warm sunny days soon to come.

If this item provides a suggestion for any of you home owners, we would be glad to give you plans and quotations. You might drop in any time at your convenience.

SHEET ROCK INSTALLATION

Cool in summer, warm in winter, less draughts to hazard health, and beautiful interiors that resist fire—this is what insulating Sheetrock provides at one low cost, with one material, in one simple operation. When used to build rooms in the attic, the basement or the outer wall area of the home, it insulates while it decorates. Here is superior insulation "founded on rock"—protection against heat and cold without sacrificing the rigidity, permanence and fire protection necessary in today's walls and ceilings.

Prospect: "Flu."

by PAUL T. HAAGEN, A.I.A.

CLOSETS

You Have Always Needed More and Probably a Moth-Proof Closet.

What householder has not felt the need of more closets in her home! There never seems to be enough closet or storage place in any house. One very desirable closet is the moth-proofed closet where winter garments, blankets, etc., may be stored during the summer months and to this end cedar has been used for many years. A cedar moth-proofed closet, while not an absolute guaranty against moths, is a pretty good place for the storage of garments. To build one requires certain methods to make it effective.

The moth-proofed closet may be built in the attic and must be sealed tight. It is a good idea to make the closet of a double thickness of boards with building paper between the boards to seal up the joints that will occur due to the shrinkage of the lumber. The closet would be built of rough lumber first; then heavy building paper placed over the rough boards; then the inside of the closet sealed with cedar boards. Weather-strip the door and make the closet as tight as possible. It is essential that all cracks and joints be eliminated.

For better closets, fit up your present ones with new shelves and compartments, making the compartments to a size that will accommodate the things to be placed therein. Have a hanging rod for more efficient use.

If you have a large closet in a handy place, perhaps you might convert it into a sewing room which should have light and ventilation, shelves and hanging space.

BOOK CASE MAY BEAUTIFY ROOM

People rarely think of the book case as a well decoration. They regard a book case only as furniture and a place in which to store their books. But a book case that is built into the wall and made a part of the decorative scheme of that wall provides one of the most beautiful and decorative treatments possible. The book case, when filled with books, takes on the aspect of a tapestry, for the many colored backs of books when massed close together and standing flush with the wall, bring color, warmth and vividness into the room.

Book cases should always be made a subordinate part of the wall decoration and never the main motif. They may be built on either side of a fireplace, a window or a doorway.

In the older houses which are to be remodeled or modernized and where there are awkward spaces and corners, rows of shelves built in will add to the informal and altogether homelike atmosphere.

It is advisable to have a cupboard in connection with the book shelves that may be used for the storage of magazines, games and unsightly books which may be covered by doors.

MODERNIZATION RENEWS OLD HOME

NO. 3

Many an old house, perhaps abandoned as worthless, may be reconditioned and brought back to a worthy state. Here are three photographs of such a house. The first illustration shows the building before reconditioning alterations were started. You will notice that the architectural lines of the house are good and apparently the structural strength of the timbers and foundations is sufficient for there is no apparent sagging of the roof lines or walls.

The second photograph shows the building during construction. You will observe that the old porch has been torn down, new dormers added in the attic, new door and window openings cut through the walls. In order to save time and expense and to secure insulation, the walls were covered with a cane fibre insulating board attached directly over the old siding, then long shingles were laid over the insulating board.

In the third photograph one cannot help but be astonished at the change for the better brought about in this old structure. Here we find an altogether charming home-like house in good architectural style. A porch was added at one end, with French doors opening to same from the room within. The entrance doorway is to be commended, for here we find a simple, straightforward colonial entrance devoid of "cluttering up" objects.

I think we will all agree that the modernization of this old home was a success, and the example should be a splendid one to illustrate what may be accomplished in this direction.

HOME IMPROVEMENTS UNDER THE WAR EMERGENCY

Don't put up with poor living conditions in your home during the war emergency. Use your ingenuity and imagination to work out and plan the many small improvements that may be made in your present home which will not be costly and which will fit into the administration's plan to curtail certain critical building materials needed for an all out war.

Most any home needs constant small repairs and replacements as the years roll by and in many cases the home may be greatly improved by such little items that the home owner may do himself. Improvements will not only prolong the life of the house but will increase the morale of the folks living in that home.

Here are a few suggestions:

Build new bookcases, remodel the old rooms, remove old partitions between rooms throwing two rooms into one large room. Divide useless large rooms into smaller rooms with extra closets and baths. Build in mirror doors. Remodel the old kitchen into a modern up-to-date kitchen with better working conditions and cases.

Create a recreation room in the attic or basement. Build a glass block wall which will admit more light into a dark room. Glass blocks may be had and remodeling and removing a section of a wall is in most cases a simple matter that a good carpenter and mason can do.

Re-decorate your house and try placing the furniture in new locations. When you redecorate use plenty of color and combine softly muted or pastel shades with bold and bright colors, or use several pastel shades together to get an interesting effect.

Backgrounds are important. The proper colors will make your furniture look better. Place the dark furniture against light colored walls. The light wood or light upholstered pieces against dark walls of warm color.

Wall boards and wood panelings are most useful in many cases. They will solve many problems in re-vamping an old room or creating a new one.

Miss Braid will be happy to discuss all decorating problems and answer any questions, without cost or obligation. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to visit The Dixon Paint & Wallpaper Company on either of these dates.

BOILER INSULATION

If you have a room located immediately above the heating plant in the basement which becomes quite warm, the heat may be lessened by having the boiler insulated. It would not do very much good to place an insulation above the boiler. If a boiler is throwing off so much heat that it travels upstairs to the room above the boiler is wasting too much heat.

OUTSIDE LIGHT

If your house sets back from the street, it is advisable that proper lighting be provided on the outside of the premises so that visitors during evening hours (as well as by day) may easily find the entrance door and may be sure of the street number of your house.

As a general rule, closets are better wide and not too deep. The deep closet soon becomes a catch-all and is always dark. The closet should have a pole for hanging garments, shelves and shoe racks, and such a closet should be about 24 inches deep.

A Thought for Today

Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see: For I tell you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.—Luke 10:23-24.

In every object there is inexhaustible meaning; the eye sees in it what the eye brings means of seeing.—Carlyle.

Vote Monday, June 1

(Ogle County Republican)

On Monday, June first, from six a. m. to five p. m. voters of Ogle and adjoining counties should go to the polls and cast their votes for Supreme Judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit, comprising twelve counties in this section. They should do this in order that a general expression of choice may be made between the two candidates, Circuit Judge William J. Fulton of Sycamore, the Republican candidate and the present incumbent, Justice Elwyn R. Shaw of Freeport the nominee of the Democratic party.

The term of Supreme Court Justices in Illinois is nine years, so for the next nine years, they will no doubt not have opportunity to vote for this office.

Supreme Court Justices are highly important, as they have the final say in the interpretation of laws passed by our State Legislature. Very often they are called upon to rule upon whether the laws enacted are constitutional, and these laws affect you, no matter what station in life you hold.

This newspaper favors the election of Judge William J. Fulton, because it believes he is highly qualified for the post and is deserving of advancement. He has served nineteen years as a Circuit Judge, and for a part of this time he has taken on the added duties of Judge of the Appellate Court. He has a judicial temperament that is well matured, and his long years on the bench of the Circuit Court has given him a broad insight into the law as it applies to the average person in his state.

But Judge Fulton can be elected only by the voters who go to the polls on June 1 and cast their vote, hence, it is important that every voter who favors his election make it a point to vote.

This district, the sixth, is overwhelmingly Republican, and if the Republican voters turn out on Monday, of June 1, his election is assured. He has served long and well, and who is more entitled to advancement, than those who have put in long years of service?

CARIBBEAN CRISIS

BY EATON K. GOLDTHWAITE

COPYRIGHT, 1942.
NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY—Bill Talcott is about to return to New York after six years on a Dutch West Indian island as branch manager for an American chemical firm, to face charges of shortage in his accounts, brought by an auditor. Bill is to return with Halsey, who was to succeed him; MacDowell, a private detective; June Paterson, cousin of Bill's former roommate, and two refugees, Martha Swenson and Prof. Constantine, who have been landed on the island by a villainous smuggler named Jackson. Bill faces the auditor, who remains in charge, with accusation that latter's charges are a frameup, engineered by higher-ups.

BILL MAKES UP HIS MIND

CHAPTER XI

AS abruptly as it had begun the conference was over. Struthers, who seemed to have as little use for food as he had for sleep, departed for the office again taking Halsey with him, and thus Bill Talcott was left alone with MacDowell.

The detective was shaky, off-balance and very near collapse.

"You ain't such a bad guy," MacDowell muttered as Bill Talcott directed his arm into a sleeve. "I guess you had to hit me—Say, you suppose I could have a drink?"

Talcott nodded, summoned the boy, and when the drink was brought MacDowell was clothed.

"You ain't such a bad guy," MacDowell said again. Suddenly he put the glass down and tipped to the window, looked out and all around; tipped back to the door and searched the hall beyond. Apparently satisfied, he returned to the center of the room, inclined his head and in a hoarse whisper said, "Ya know somep'n? I don't like that guy Struthers."

Talcott covered his surprise. "No? I thought you fellows were buddies."

"Me, a buddy to him? I'd like to kick him in the pants—MacDowell, get up! Do yer dooty!"

"Talcott swallowed a smile. "Strange, wasn't it, how he avoided all that trouble at the dock?"

"Yeah. Listen, I been watchin' you, an' when I watch the more satisfied I am somep'n stinks besides the fertilizer around here," MacDowell paused. "Listen, can you keep your mouth shut?"

"I can."

MacDowell bent forward further and in his eagerness his eyes were distended until he stared from their tops; his voice was sunk lower still. "Private or public, I'm still a cop, see? I'm gettin' paid to do a job, and so far as anybody knows I'm gonna do it. But I ain't such a bad guy myself. Maybe I framed a few guys in divorce proceedings, but it was because the guys themselves wanted to get framed, see? I never been a party to framing a guy for the pen, and I'm too old to start now."

Bill Talcott could no longer control his surprise. "Do you mean you have evidence that Struthers is trying to frame me?"

MacDowell moved his hands hastily. "Listen, I didn't say that. I only said I don't like how this thing smells. So I'm gonna help you if you'll keep your mouth shut."

WAS this a trap? MacDowell was in Struthers' employ; he had come to Abas with Struthers and Halsey. He was hand in glove with the auditor, and if a plot was cooking, he would be an ingredient. But Mr. MacDowell had taken a few nasty raps that weren't in the cards. Was this just a trap to the old confidence game, or was the man fed up and sincere? Talcott eyed him speculatively and decided to gamble.

"All right," Talcott said. "What's your proposition?"

MacDowell inhaled sharply. "This is a Dutch island, ain't it?"

"Yes."

"Okay. What happens if you refuse to be extradited?"

Talcott stared. "You mean—"

"If you don't want to go back to New York with me, I ain't got the power to make you. You can tie this thing up in the courts with a writ of habeas corpus. Legally, they can't touch you until you been extradited, and that matters takes a long while. From what you said to Struthers, I figure you want to stick around so's to see he don't put any clingers on you. That way you could do it. See?"

Talcott searched the other's face in amazement. Here indeed was help from an unexpected quarter. Abas being a Dutch island some 600 air miles distant from the seat of government, he could stand on his rights; could dispatch a letter for legal counsel and wait calmly while lawyers and judges argued the matter. He could remain on the island, a thorn in Struthers' side, watching, tabulating and compiling evidence in his own defense. He could squat on his haunches while the little auditor yapped like a terrier. It would be satisfaction in a large measure for what he had suffered.

That way he would get satisfaction. But would satisfaction solve the problem? Revenge was like getting drunk; you hurt someone else because they had hurt you and all the while the more important things were going on without you. You stood and gloated over your antagonist who, in the last analysis, might be merely an agent sacrificed to prevent you from reaching the end.

THERE was something else; deeper, more psychologically significant. Already, in the eyes of the men, Halsey was boss. The new man had proved himself while Bill Talcott had lost face. How would they interpret his continued inactive presence? What would Sebastian and black Tomas and all the others think of him if he were to remain, vindictive but ineffectual, an impotent vegetable ripening to rotteness in the sun? He could face accusations, could fight words and tricks and legal proceedings, but he could never bear to see the light of respect and affection in the eyes of his men change to darkness, bitter and hard with disappointment.

No, the locus of the thing lay in New York; perhaps in the cloistered offices of Federal Chemical itself. No matter what the manifestations, his task was clear; he must avoid and overcome the lesser obstacles thrust as bait in his path. His object was the end. Slowly he turned. "I appreciate your offer, MacDowell. I fully appreciate what it cost you to make it. The advice you have given me is valuable, but I'm not going to take it."

"MacDowell's mouth gaped. "What? You mean you're gonna let 'em go ahead an' smear you? You're gonna take it layin' down?"

"I mean I'm returning to New York with you on the Blue Petrel. A man can't run away from his troubles. My trouble is in New York. Maybe I'm wrong but that's the way I'm built. I've got to face Winters for a showdown."

"But while you're outa here, he can—"

"He may do anything he likes. He has taken a stand. So have I. I much prefer mine."

MacDowell started to sputter something in protest when a new voice from the doorway caused him to whirl about.

June Paterson was there, calmly eyeing them. "A very pretty speech," she sniffed. "How such a virtuous creature as you seem to be can get yourself in so much trouble, I don't understand. So you're going on the Blue Petrel too! My, won't that be a jolly party?"

A slow, angry flush stole through Talcott's cheeks. Some day, he promised himself, this upstart cousin of Lowell Byrd's would find himself across his knee. (To Be Continued)

The Roots of Inflation

Once upon a time many years ago, a little wart appeared on the side of the fourth finger on our right hand. Since it was not painful or particularly obtrusive, the wart was neglected. Gradually it grew.

In time, tiny warts began to appear on other fingers which came into contact with the original excrescences. Disturbed, at last, we attacked the newer growths and kept them under control. But the original tumor—the seed wart—thrived on, and bred new offspring.

Eventually we were shaken out of the manana attitude, obtained some acetic acid and killed off the seed wart. Thereafter we had no more trouble.

All of which comes to mind whenever we stop to think about the way Washington is trying to control that inflation which New Deal and Old Deal both dread and say that we must stop at any cost.

By imposing a ceiling upon prices which retailers can charge legally for most commodities, we are trying to stop the Jack's beanstalk climb of the price level.

The prices which competitive retail outlets normally charge are fixed generally by the costs of the goods they sell. Those costs are governed largely by raw material and labor charges.

But the cost of labor and the price of farm products—two major elements which go to make up the cost of those things still flowing to retailers' shelves are not to be fixed.

The retailer in March was selling commodities which he purchased before March, at prices lower than those for which he could replenish his stock in March.

When Leon Henderson fixed retail prices at March level, he sentenced the retailer to a very substantial cut in the mark-up from which his expenses and profit have to come.

Neither retailer nor wholesaler has any reason to expect that even this reduced markup margin can be maintained, for Washington insists upon permitting readjustments in wages, which enter into the cost of goods.

Mr. Henderson has said he is not going to stand for price rises to correct such injustices, which if not eliminated may sound the death knell of American merchandising except in the case of the biggest, most efficiently operated stores.

Instead, the administration would prefer to subsidize those who otherwise would be ruined by politicians' refusal to offend "Labor" by fixing wage levels.

As the situation now stands, we are going to permit the seed warts of inflation to flourish, but by proclamation forbid them to be communicable. As new tumors defy Mr. Henderson and do appear, we shall cover them with bits of adhesive tape in the form of subsidies, and deny they exist.

Can a tumor be polyannealed away? Our wart couldn't.

Washington, May 22—The battle of production has been won.

American industry went over the top in April, out of the preparatory organizing phase, and into the great American stride of mass production which no one can equal anywhere. From now on the production line on our charts will go nearly straight up.

We reached the producing rate of $40,000,000,000 a year in April. It will be up another 25 percent to $50,000,000,000 in June and $70,000,000,000 — nearly double April—before the end of the year.

As War Producer Donald Nelson told a friend the other day, the metamorphosis of that great economic giant called American industry was as vast and violent as the change which took place in the oil and auto industries in 1914-15 when Henry Ford discovered the conveyor belt and started turning out model T's like cans of corn.

Great as our peacetime production standard was before we entered upon defense, the expansion which has been piled on top of it now is greater still.

Practically every phase—airplanes, tanks and guns—is ahead of those stupendous schedules which Roosevelt laid before Congress at the outset of our defense effort, schedules that many doubted could be attained.

The reason we are ahead is the same one which is now beginning to show itself on the fighting front—superior American ingenuity. New techniques were discovered.

Schedule for a west coast plane factory, for instance, was 50 planes a month. The factory is today turning out 150 planes a month.

When the production line was set up there, both industry and labor began finding day after day new ways to speed it up until they trebled it.

Mass production never remains static. Small arms production is anywhere from 25 percent up, ahead of its blueprints, because of technical advancements. In shell production, it was discovered steel could be substituted for brass (copper) on shells of less than 5-inch calibre, and since then this line has been sizzling.

Airplanes have three unsatisfactory factory spots, mentioned in this column previously, but all others are now ahead. Difficulty now is the supply of processed materials like aluminum castings and forgings. How high production will go will apparently depend on how this shortage is worked out.

Among the aviation factories which have done an outstanding job are the Consolidated four motor bomber plant on the Pacific coast and the Curtiss-Wright plant in upper New York state.

Chrysler has distinguished itself greatly in creating the tank arsenal in Michigan. General Motors production figures in dollars (for the sake of military secrecy) show it hit the mass stage in April, putting $112,000,000 of war materials for that month, up to $17,000,000 from March.

Sperry Gyroscope is getting a private pat from headquarters here for what it has done in instruments, and National Cash Register has distinguished itself in fire control equipment (shooting stuff).

There are still some bad lines, mainly merchant ship building. Warship building is O. K., except in one small-boat phase. Merchant ships are only slightly behind schedule, but government economists figure that if the April rate of ship sinkings is suffered the remainder of this year, the 8,000,000 ton goal of our construction (even if it is reached) will be 2,000,000 tons short of what is needed.

The first three months of the year, deliveries of steel plate to ship yards were behind, but this condition is now being remedied by diversion. The bottleneck here now is in the supplies of pipes, engines, seacocks and such.

In fact, things are going so well on this primary battleline, WPB has curtailed its new plant building and is switching the raw materials into actual production of tanks, ships, etc.

Foolish stories are being spread around that this change was effected because WPB thought the war might soon end, but the real reason is plain enough. There is no use in pushing iron and steel into new factories when your existing capacity can make more tanks and guns with it. At hand is May 31, the date for the end of most consumers durable goods production, and these old refrigerator and radio factories also will be available for war production thereafter.

Now this does not mean the war is over. It does mean the battle on the important initial front has been won. Troubles on that front, of course, are not ended. Shortages of materials lie ahead, particularly for the period of the end of this year.

Factories yet are far from a 3-shift capacity basis. They are beyond the one and one and a half shifts, but there is yet some leeway for advancement on this angle, and others.

The important thing now is that it was won by the same sort of stuff Doolittle showed over Japan, MacArthur and the navy exhibited when they knocked the Japs off in the Coral Sea before they could get started on a new invasion, and the boys showed when a large convoy was landed in Ireland. It shows what American ingenuity can do when it gets into aggressive action.

No other nation, no other system, political or economic, has ever been able to tie it, in war or peace. Here is the first war victory for our democratic way of life.

BOYS IN THE SERVICE

E. Melvin Chandler (above), former student in the public schools of Dixon, who enlisted in the army Sept. 26, 1940, had advanced to the rank of sergeant. He is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Charles S. Rosenthal of New York City, former resident of Dixon, is now stationed at the yeoman's school at the U. S. Naval Training station at Toledo, Ohio, relatives here have been informed. His wife and two children have taken up their residence at Toledo to be near him during his period of training.

Mrs. Pearl Blackburn of Sterling, formerly of Dixon, has received word that her son, Pvt. William Hawley Blackburn, is attending the Casey Jones School of Aeronautics. He will be glad to hear from any of his friends, at the following address: 88 Mulberry street, Newark, N. J., U. S. Air Corps, Class 29-42.

According to word received by Mrs. Frank Redbauer, her husband, a private, is now located at the following address: Co. I, 38th Ar. Regt., 8th Armored Div., A. P. O. 258, Fort Knox, Kentucky, U. S. Army.

Corp. John Shaulis returned to Ft. Sheridan, Tuesday afternoon, after spending a few days in Dixon.

Enid Army Flying School, Okla. — May 23 — Sergeant William Vaessen, of Class 42-H at this Army Flying School, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Vaessen of Route 2, Dixon, Ill., is emulating his father, who was in the Air Force, during the first World War.

Sergeant Vaessen, still has a photograph of his father in uniform, taken at Wichita Falls, Texas, where Mr. Vaessen was an aviation mechanic. It was partly due to his father's stories of the Air Corps that Sergeant Vaessen entered as an aviation student.

The young aviation student finds that there is a great difference in the equipment and training now. During the last war the training planes were the same as those used in combat. They had no flying instruments, no parachutes, nor radios. Signal flags were used to direct the planes from the ground. These planes could not make landings as the present trainers can, and required a great deal of maintenance.

In the old days, the flyers were not required to pass as rigid an examination as now. Their training period was much shorter, and neither as detailed nor as broad. Today an Aviation student or Aviation cadet must study in ground school, theory of flight, aerodynamics, radio code, meteorology, airplane and engine construction, and other subjects. He must go through three training schools: primary, basic and advanced.

GAME POSTPONED

Champaign, Ill., May 23—(AP)—The usual reason for postponing baseball games is inclement weather, but St. Mary's grade school team found a new one.

A game was cancelled when the players on the visiting team refused to scale a fence to play in the University of Illinois field.

LETTER WINNERS . . . Coach A. C. Bowers' Duke track team has had a more or less on and off season of it . . . but the boys deserve a lot of credit for the manner which they stayed in there pluggin' and pitchin' away all season . . . and the results have been much improvement and we still have a great deal to hear from most of these lads with the coming seasons . . . eight seniors and three juniors and one sophomore have won major awards this season . . . the seniors . . . Captain George Weigle, Jo VanMeter, John Weaver, Paul Hoeman, Clell Weidman, Kenneth Johnson, Bob Woodworth and Dale Cramer . . . the Juniors . . . Gordon Ommen, Donald Koth, and Bob Quilhot . . . and the one sophomore is Bob Cramer . . . the captain for next year's squad will not be elected until next spring . . . minor letter awards have been handed to the following underclassmen . . . sophomores . . . Eddie Osowski and Richard Stitzel . . . freshmen . . . Fred Mienke, Dean Rizner, James Brady and Bob Alexander . . .

CONGESTION AND CONFUSION . . . during the running of the 440 yard event yesterday in the Conference track meet, Joe VanMeter, on one of the turns suddenly surged across the lanes and bumped a few other boys . . . we believe "pushed" is better than surged, and as a result was disqualified . . . rather a shame for the lad ran a nice race and finished in second . . . well, what with his disqualification and the judges being in a "dither" about the whole thing, a Geneseo boy ran in third . . . but when the judges picked the placers the Geneseo lad wasn't even mentioned . . . so quite a howl ensued from both the Geneseo viewpoint and the Dixon point . . . well the whole thing quieted down and was forgotten . . . it's so seldom that something of this nature happens in a track meet that when it does occur the judges are as much surprised as the crowd . . .

GOLF MATCH . . . Coach Art Driver's Oregon golf team lost their first match of this season yesterday afternoon to the Freeport high team on the Freeport Country Club course . . . score, 10 to 5 . . . previously in the season Oregon beat Freeport 12 to 3 . . . Brown of Freeport was yesterday's medalist as he carded a 75 . . . Jim Lamb and Stan Kozuck were low for the Oregon team, each turning in an 84 . . .

TOMORROW'S TRAIL RIDE . . . just a last minute reminder fans, the first trail ride of the season sponsored by the Rock River Trail and Horseman's Association is scheduled for tomorrow, Sunday . . . some old fashioned country style food is on the bill of fare and the lay-out for the ride should, together, provide one of the best trail rides which has happened around this territory in the last few years . . . the things that we really go for is that "chuck" wagon which will accompany the riders through the entire course of the ride . . . this wagon is to be loaded with all sorts of refreshments and so-on . . . and imagine, absolutely for nothing . . .

THAT VOICE AGAIN . . . that voice which buzzed us yesterday morn and inquired if we were moving out of our house and into a fox hole, called again this morning . . . but we weren't afraid this "matin" . . . ya' know the Sox won yesterday . . . well the fellow wasn't at all belligerent . . . he remarked on our column being pretty good yesterday (ya' can't touch us today after that one) . . . he also congratulated us on the White Sox spectacle of yester eve . . . and then he got in his pointed thrust . . . now will you promise me one thing . . . and we, feeling so elated over the unrationed "sugar" he was handing us that we automatically replied "yeah, sure, anything" . . . so he came with this, "well that proposition you made yesterday about the Cub fans staying in their backyard and the White Sox remaining in their junior circuit, doesn't seem so good to me and you've just got to keep right on picking the Cub fans apart, if you don't think we are gonna get pretty dull this summer" . . . and imagine, this coming from a Cub fan . . . "oboy" are we gonna have fun . . .

AND MORE CONFERENCE MEETS . . . the Conference track meet is over and the championship decided in favor of Sterling for the second consecutive year . . . but the annual spring meets are just getting a good start for today two more conference meets are underway . . . the preliminaries of both the golf and tennis meets started at 8:30 this morning . . . the finals to be played this afternoon . . . the tennis finals will be on the high school courts . . . and the golf title play will take place out at Plum Hollow . . .

Transportation Is Headache Worry to Minor Moguls

New York, May 23—(AP)—It is the chartered buses the fans won't be able to use, not the loss of means for player transportation, that has Minor League baseball worried.

The office of defense transportation has ruled that chartered buses will be banned after June 1 but a survey by the Associated Press showed that a majority of Minor League teams own their own conveyance, use regular bus lines or travel by train.

Virtually every League, however, was concerned by the probable loss of patronage. In the Minors it is not uncommon for an owner to name a night in honor of some nearby town whose fans respond by hiring buses and attend in a body.

Only in scattered cases in the pioneer, Southeastern, Western Association, Three-I, Wisconsin State and Appalachian Leagues are there clubs which rely on chartered buses. All say they will have the situation remedied by June 1.

In most cases the clubs own their own buses or station wagons. In some cases, private automobiles belonging to the players are being used, with the club paying expenses.

Generally, teams in the big Minors travel by train but the charges are prohibitive for the smaller loops and the time tables weren't drawn up with baseball schedules in mind.

Mickey McConnell, in charge of the Brooklyn farm system, said the biggest worry of Minor League moguls was the prospect of gasoline rationing. Virtually all the leagues in the area in which gasoline now is rationed say they are able to obtain enough for the transportation of their teams but fear a loss in attendance under the fuel restrictions.

Although W. G. Braham, chief of all the Minor Leagues, couldn't be reached, President Ross Edgemon of the Appalachian League said he had received a telegram from Braham predicting that "adjustments probably will be made in the bus ruling."

Relay Event Decides Crown; DeKalb Finishes Second; Ottawa in Third; Two New Records in Vault and Discus

Over Five Hundred People Witness the Court of Honor Presenting Awards to The Point-Winners of the Meet

Yesterday morn started with all the briskness which would indicate a chilly day, but as the day progressed warmth was added and an exceptionally mellow evening followed which made conditions ideal for the annual Illinois North Central Conference track and field meet, held under the Sterling Stadium lights.

A quick order of events and some hotly contested finishes made the event a thriller for the some 500 people who witnessed the spectacle and remained to watch the point-winners approach the Court of Honor and receive their awards from the various Queens.

Through most of the meet, the nod for the title could have gone to any of four or five teams, but as the last few remaining events loomed the race boiled down to three outfits. And as the finale, the 880 yard relay, came on deck, three teams were in there scrapping it out for the Conference Title. At the start of the relay, Sterling and Ottawa were tied, each having a total of 38 points and DeKalb had an excellent chance with 37 tallies credited. However, last year's champs, Coach Ted Schied's Sterling thin-clads, breezed through the four man relay event in the time of one minute, thirty-five and six-tenths seconds which gave them a repeat performance and the 1942 Conference Track Title, with 43 points. DeKalb took a fourth in the relay which gave her second place with a total of 39 points. Ottawa, who had a chance to win the meet, failed to even place in the relay and she finished in the totals with 38 points for third place. Mendota was fourth with 21 points, Dixon fifth with 19, Geneseo sixth with 18 and Rock Falls seventh with 17. Princeton and Hall Township were not entered in the meet because their schools have already closed for this term.

Duke Point Winners
Captain Weigle of the Dukes was the only lad to garner a first for the Dixon squad. He toured the mile event in the excellent time of four minutes, forty-six and six-tenths seconds. Dixon's relay team ran in second place. Ommen placed third in the 440 yard run. Quilhot got a third in the discus. Weidman placed fourth in the century run. And Koth picked up fifths in both the 200 yard low hurdles and the 120 yard high hurdles.

New Records
Two records were shattered last night when Jones of Ottawa hurled the discus to the long distance of 136 ft. 9 1/2 inches and Junior Spencer of Rock Falls soared to a new height of 11 ft. and 10 inches in the pole vault. These two new records broke old marks which had been set by Dixon boys. Howard Mantach, previously, held the discus record and Albert Hoeman's vault of 10 ft. and 8 inches back in 1938 stood good until last night.

Court of Honor
The Court of Honor was composed of one Queen from each competing school. These girls presented the winning awards following the meet. And the following were in the group of reigning Queens: Charlene Enichen of Dixon, Bonnie Genterman of DeKalb, Lois Eckert of Mendota, Mary Catheryn Grey of Ottawa, Elaine Bollen of Geneseo, Alice Yarde of Rock Falls, and Betty McCombs of Sterling.

Bob Pastor and Mauriello Fight to Draw Decision

New York, May 23—(AP)—The understatement of the year would be to say today that the look on Joe Louis' face was one of simple surprise when he heard the announcement that gave Tami Mauriello a draw with Bob Pastor. And since Promoter Mike Jacobs felt the same way, Uncle Mike said today he "didn't see why" the outcome of last night's ten-round thriller in Madison Square Garden "should change whatever plans are in the making" for a late-June or early-July tussle between rapid Robert and the Bomber.

Of course, everything still hinged on whether Uncle Sam's Army would give Mike and Private Joe the green light for that fight. If the okay comes along, Mike indicated he would go ahead, despite what happened last night. The chances are, however, that for various reasons the fight will go to Cleveland or Chicago, instead of New York, with the Ohio City in front just now.

Those at ringside last night came pretty close to being unanimous that Pastor had whipped Mauriello, in spite of the Fordham flailer's fast start, and a finish in which he and Bob stood head to head and banged away for minutes at a time. A crowd of 11,327 customers chipped in to a gross pot of $22,972.

Of 25 boxing writers polled, 22 thought Pastor won, two agreed with the draw decision and one believed Mauriello finished on top. This corner gave Pastor six rounds, Mauriello two and called two even.

Joe was with the majority. Louis remarked to the fellow next to him, "I think Pastor won." And even Joe's customary deadpan popped in astonishment when Announcer Baloch broadcast the "draw" verdict. Judge Charley Draycott called it for Tami, Judge Marty Bonroe balloted for Pastor and Referee George Walsh voted a draw.

Cleveland loomed as a likely spot for the Pastor-Louis shindig largely because of blackout regulations here, and because Manager Jimmy Johnston said Pastor would never fight here again. There was a rumor that the Army had okayed the fight for July 7, but Jacobs and the Army denied this.

Diz Dean Faces Satchel Paige in Exhibition Game
Chicago, May 23—(AP)—Dizzy Dean and his million dollar arm will come out of retirement tomorrow to pitch a couple of innings—or less—against Satchel Paige in Wrigley Field.

The great one, bought by the Cubs from the St. Louis Cardinals in 1938 for $185,000 in cash, will be supported by speedballer Bob Feller and John Grodzicki. Feller, former Cleveland ace, will come from the Newport, R. I., Naval Base, and Grodzicki, former Pittsburgh Pirate flinger, will report from Port Knox, Ky.

The game will pit the Dean all-stars consisting of former Major and Minor Leaguers, most of whom now are in the armed forces, against Paige's all-Negro contingent of Kansas City Monarchs.

The contest, tabbed "Bonura Day," will be for benefit of the fans only. The only contribution guaranteed for a fund is Feller's game salary which he will donate to Naval relief.

Zeke Bonura, former White Sox and Cub first sacker, will come from Camp Shelby, Miss., to take over the first base chores.

The first appearance of Feller, Paige, Cecil Travis, formerly of Washington, and others in Wrigley Field, plus the return of Dean and Bonura, threatens to outdraw the White Sox-Detroit double-header on the south side.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON JR.,
World Sports Columnist
New York, May 23—Think you have headaches? How'd you like to trade for the job of running a chain of Minor League clubs for some Big-League outfit? . . . Besides the normal supply of holdouts, sore arms, injuries, etc., this season you'd have players taking defense jobs where they can make more dough, night games being ruled out if your park is too near the coast, customers from out-of-town staying at home to save their precious gas and tires, that new ruling against chartering buses—and maybe six patches on the right rear tire of the bus your class "C" team owns, a lot of hurry-up calls to replace players who were drafted or enlisted. And on top of all that, you don't know whether to go out and sign up a lot of promising 16 and 17 year old kids for next year because you don't know whether you'll have any clubs operating.

Practice Makes Perfect, Eh?
In three years as a member of the Temple U. track team, Johnny Lupoli never was able to win a race. . . . Last spring he decided to call it quits and play baseball instead. . . . But when examinations kept him from taking a southern trip with the ball team, he asked to go along with the track squad on a shorter jaunt. . . . Johnny won both the 100 and 220-yard dashes against Bucknell, and now he swears he'll never again train for sprinting.

Service Dept.
Lieut. George "Blitzkrieg" Barr, one of the Yanks who bombed Tokyo, got his nickname when he was a member of the Northland college basketball team at Ashland, Wis., that ran up a great winning streak a few years ago. . . . and two of his flying mates, Lieuts. Howard A. Sessler and Gene McGul used to play a lot of hockey around Boston. . . . Sessler played for a while with the Boston Olympics.

Fans at the Polo Grounds are eliminating the middle man by grabbing baseballs hit into the stands and tossing them to the nearest service man.

Calling The Shots
Playing golf in a friendly foursome at Chattanooga, Tenn., the other Sunday, Harry Odom and his partner were one down at the last tee. Both their rivals made good tee shots for easy birdies on the short hole and one of them kidded: "Well, boys, nothing but a hole in one will save you." . . . The challenge couldn't be resisted; Odom whacked his shot right into the cup.

Badgers Still Cling to Chance of Tying Iowa U in Big Ten Baseball
Chicago, May 23—(AP)—Wisconsin clung to a slim chance of tying Iowa for either the Big Ten baseball pennant or runner-up spot—depending on Michigan's destiny next week—by defeating Northwestern, last night, 10 to 3.

The victory gave the Badgers five wins in seven starts and left Northwestern with only four triumphs in 11 games.

Wisconsin, playing its first game under lights, pounded pitcher Ted Esser, for nine runs before Bob Busse came to his rescue in the fifth. Walt Lautenbach went the route for the winners, scattering seven hits and allowing six walks.

Purdue handed Minnesota its seventh setback in nine games with a 3-0 whitewash. Lanky Ed Misselhorn, winning pitcher, was tagged for 10 hits but was airtight with men on bases. Eleven Gophers were left stranded.

Purdue made only five hits off Norm Gallup, but Bill Burghardt pounded out a triple in the second to drive in two runs and set the stage for the win.

Ted Williams of Red Sox Becomes Naval Air Cadet

Boston, May 23—(AP)—Ted Williams always has been reckoned as a "popoff" but the volatile and willowy wallpaper managed to grit his teeth through a lot of adverse heckling on the recent western swing of the Boston Red Sox—because he felt that at the end of the trail he was going to be Theodore F. Williams, seaman, second class.

It's not unlikely that the curly-haired slugger, who led the American League with his amazing .406 average last fall and then led the All-American controversy league with his presidential appeal classification into 3-A during the winter, did some slight simmering at some of the barnyard moos he collected on the last western swing.

"But, it's all right now," grinned Ted as the naval aviation board accepted his enlistment. "I'm glad I kept my mouth shut and I'm tickled to death I made it."

Williams wouldn't say so but there was no question that he had been somewhat worried about the stiff naval tests which decide whether you are fit to fly Uncle Sam's planes.

"It wasn't bad," Ted said as he was sworn in to become one of the Navy's flying cadets, probably in the next few months. "The people have been swell to me and I hope this will show them, how much I appreciate their feeling toward me."

Ted's status will shift from seaman, second class, to cadet when he starts active service, and, if he completes the difficult nine-month flying course, he will be slated for an ensign's commission.

Williams passed all his examinations with flying colors.

Williams, classified as 1-A, aroused a storm of controversy when an appeal just before his induction into the army put him back into the 3-A classification because his mother was dependent upon him.

"She's all right now," Williams said. "She's still under the doctor's care but I guess everything will be all right."

Some one asked Ted whether he planned to continue baseball after this war was all over.

"Continue?" he almost screamed. "That's my first love. All I want to do after we slug this Axis is to hit. That's my first love. Put that down twice."

Springfield Retains 3-Eye Lead by Shutting out Evansville in 6-0 Game
Chicago, May 23—(AP)—Springfield bunched all its runs in the last three innings last night to blank Evansville, 6-0, and retain the Three-Eye League leadership.

In hanging up its 12th victory in 16 games, Springfield collected eight hits from Pitcher Siders, touching him for four runs in the ninth. Yelkin whitewashed Evansville with a six-hit job.

Cedar Rapids held second place although splitting a doubleheader with tailender Madison. Cedar Rapids won the seven-inning nightcap, 9-0, with six runs in the third and the two-hit work of pitcher Stroupe. Madison captured the opener, 5-2, getting its runs in the fifth and sixth frames and battering two Cedar Rapids' pitchers for six hits.

Waterloo pulled up to the .500 percentage mark by taking its eighth victory of the year from Decatur, 5-3. Two runs in the seventh and another pair in the ninth sewed up the game. The winners pounded out 13 hits from three pitchers while Decatur could muster only seven scattered ones from moundsman Moudeous.

In games scheduled tonight, Waterloo will be at Decatur and Springfield at Evansville.

Today while Northwestern went after Wisconsin at Madison.

Army and Navy Relief Funds to be Boosted With 2 Games Today

(By The Associated Press)
Almost anything can happen in the seven major league baseball games scheduled today, but a sure winner in two of them is the Army-Navy relief fund.

Proceeds from games in the nation's capital where the New York Yankees meet the Washington Senators, and at Boston, where the Red Sox take on the Philadelphia Athletics, will go to help care for the families of those who fall on the fighting fronts.

The two contests are part of a series of 16 scheduled in the two leagues for the fund.

An added attraction at Boston will be a curtain-raiser between service teams, with Sailor Bob Feller pitching for the Navy nine and Soldier Hugh Mulcahy opposing him for the Army squad.

Only six teams saw action yesterday in an abbreviated program, shortened further by the weather.

In the lone afternoon game, moved up to daylight by New York's ban on night baseball, the Giants bumped Brooklyn's National League leaders, 5-1, handing the Dodgers their second straight defeat and pitcher Ed Head his first loss after five triumphs.

The second-place Boston Braves chopped another half-game off Brooklyn's margin and reduced the Dodger lead to five lengths by whipping the Philadelphia Phils, 10-7.

At Chicago, the White Sox downed the Detroit Tigers, 7-4, in the only American League game, hanging up their eighth victory in ten starts.

Wally Moses and Bob Kennedy led a 15-hit attack on Virgil Trucks and Johnny Gorschka, Masses with two doubles and Kennedy with three singles.

Johnny Humphries was credited with the victory, although he yielded nine of the 11 Detroit hits, including a homer by Dixie Parsons.

Two managers missed the final outs in the night games. Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox was chased in the ninth for protesting a baseline decision by umpire Bill Grieve and Hans Lobert of the Phils was banished late in the final frame at Philadelphia.

Grumman Aircraft Employs a Unique Personnel Plan

Cargo Planes Begin to Show Great Importance

New York — The manpower problem—a plan put into operation by the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation might smoothe the wrinkles in the brows of a good many harried personnel managers.

Grumman turns out the Navy's Wildcat fighter with which Lt. Cmdr. "Butch" O'Hare knocked down six Japanese bombers; the Avenger torpedo bomber, of which more is destined to be heard but nothing now may be said, and small and large amphibians used on Navy and Coast Guard patrol duty.

That production job, which has turned out more Wildcats in the first four months of 1942 than in all of 1941 and won for Grumman the coveted Navy "E" pennant, now requires some 12,000 workers. (Grumman began in 1929, with fewer than 20 employees and an abandoned Long Island garage as its first plant.)

Leon A. (Jake) Swirbul, general manager, and the company are planning in this way, in cooperation with the government, to cope with any transfer of personnel to the armed forces.

Grumman's personnel records are exceptionally thorough. Not only do they know their workers, but also their workers' backgrounds.

So, when a man is drafted, Grumman tries to get a new worker from that man's family. Maybe his kid brother, but more probably his sister or even his mother. For a number of obvious reasons, it can't be made a blanket policy, but it's being done wherever practical.

Personnel Standards
The system promises to pay dividends two ways—to Grumman and to the armed forces.

The armed forces get a man who isn't beset by worries over his family's security, who knows under what sort of conditions the new bread-winner is working.

Grumman gets a worker to whom the company already is more than merely a name, and who therefore has an added incentive to make good on the job.

Most of the newcomers are women. Counting those in the shops and in the firm's 10 training schools, the plant now employs about 1,000 of them. Like other firms throughout the country in all sorts of war production, Grumman finds them good workers, particularly on routine operations and inspection.

Eventually, Swirbul predicts, they will make up 30 percent of the Grumman personnel.

Aerial Cargo Ships
U. S. Aircraft plants, besides turning out combat planes as fast as they can, also are producing aerial cargo ships in growing numbers in an effort to overcome our slow start in developing this particular type of craft.

The need for such planes is underscored each time a U-boat picks off another merchant ship.

The army already is using Douglas and Lockheed transport, among others. Newest to join the line will be the Curtiss C-46, so far as is known the largest twin-engine transport in the world.

Bituminous coal production for 1941 is estimated at 550 million tons, compared with 453 million tons for 1940.

John J. Audubon, the famous American ornithologist, was born May 8, 1780.

The Mekong river is the eleventh longest river in the world, with a length of 2500 miles.

The human body uses 73 calories per hour for normal heat production while sleeping.

THE simplest of home recipes for saving pennies: turn out unnecessary lights. One person shouldn't have to follow others around, turning switches! Besides—ample electric supply is vital to war production!

Traveling Around America

FOOD INDEBTEDNESS

WE are indebted, in a large measure to the "other Americas"—for our daily vitamins. Here are samples of some of the fruits and vegetables which our southern neighbors have given to us and to the world. The bananas by right do not belong in the basket, for they originated in southern Asia several centuries B. C.; yet South America is the main source of our supply.

Peru gave the world potatoes, corn, sweet potatoes, pumpkins, peppers, yams, and such exotic fruits as the cherimoya and sikana. Paraguay is believed to be the original donor of the pineapple. Brazil brought peanuts into the world. The ranchlands of the east coast of South America gave us yerba mate which makes such refreshing, stimulating tea. South and Central America introduced the orchid family whence comes our vanilla. As for meat—the cattle ranch and the cattle industry were introduced to us by Mexico. She also contributed the very important item—chocolate. Various countries in the American tropics gave us the coconuts, cassava, papaya, avocado, and other luscious fruits—to say nothing of chicle, without which there would be no chewing gum. South America also introduced the navel orange, the strawberry—and tobacco, which many people nowadays find almost as important as food. Such are only a few of the items on our daily fare which originated in the "Other Americas." In winter especially, the holds of ships arriving from fortnightly cruises to Peru and Chile bring up a plenteous supply of fruits and vegetables from the lands below the Equator, where seasons are the reverse of ours.

$67,161.00 Pledged

In the nation wide canvass of Minute Men, $67,161.19 was pledged by 432 investors in Franklin Grove, China and Nachusa townships for the purchase of United States savings bonds and stamps. In pledging to purchase these government securities, each purchaser is not only doing his part in helping finance the great war program now in progress but he is putting away a reserve for future use, after the war is over.

Several days previous to and following May 11, 61 Minute Men canvassed every home in China and Nachusa townships, and without parades or fanfare, presented their cause seriously but without force to the people of these communities. The response was very gratifying.

This work was carried on under the supervision of Frank H. Senger who was appointed chairman of these two townships by Norman B. Collins of Chicago, state administrator of the defense savings staff of the state of Illinois.

The local chairman in turn selected the directors of the 16 school districts in this area, and an additional committee to handle the canvass in Franklin Grove. In Franklin Grove pledges for the purchase of defense savings securities amounted to $36,932.00.

Those participating as Minute Men in the drive were: Charles E. Baker, Leland Blocher, R. C. Gross, W. D. Heckman, Henry Helmershausen, Henry Hicks, R. E. Jacobs, William Herbst, B. C. Hussey, J. H. Lincoln, Ralph Pyse, Glenn Wagner, Guy Wasson, C. A. Watson, Roy Shoemaker, W. L. Moore, Kathryn S. Johnson, M. F. Gonnerman, Edgar Crawford, George Stiles, Chester Shaulis, Guy Moulton, Arthur Clayton, Elwin Patch, Cecil Emmons, Carl E. Spangler, William F. Meyer, Glen H. Dysart, Theodore Burhenn, Charles F. Huyett, Herman Schafer, Arthur Schafer, Elmer J. Miller, Harvey J. Brucker, Wilbur Dysart, John A. Bothe, Lloyd Hoyle, Jos. Mills, Arthur Hullah, J. F. Atkinson, Clarence Bothe, Warner Schier, Clarence L. Herbst, Virgil Page, Frank Sheffler, Leland Brink, August Johns, Charles Warner, Leo Withey, A. B. Naylor, D. W. Beachley, Jay E. Miller, O. D. Buck, Robert Stevens, Frank Floto, Clifford Floto, Edna Mielke, Ernest Wagner and H. W. Edgington.

Woman's Club Banquet

On Tuesday evening, May 19th a group of 90 Woman's club members and guests gathered in the Kersten gymnasium to enjoy the May banquet, which concluded the year's work.

The tables presented a most inviting picture as the ladies entered the banquet hall. They were arranged in a "U" shape and each table was graced by three large bouquets of iris arranged in low dishes with wax water lilies floating at the side, these were lighted during the dinner. The nut cups were yellow creps paper water lilies.

The banquet had been prepared by the ladies of the Lighthouse church. It was exceptionally attractive and tasty, consisting of parsley potatoes, scalloped chicken, asparagus tips, jello salad, radishes, celery, rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee. During the dinner hour music was furnished by Rev. and Mrs. Montanus, F. J. Blocher and Wayne Bates.

The president, Mrs. Alta Chiles was seated at the center of the table with the speaker, Mrs. Thompson, retiring presidents and retiring board members to her left, and to her right were the new president, Mrs. Alice Schafer and the board members.

Mrs. Myrtle Bishop and Elsie Neff Shaulis pupils entertained with a combined program. There were enjoyable piano duets, vocal solos, individual and team dance and song numbers.

The guest for the evening was Mrs. Dee D. Thompson of Compton, 13th District president of the Woman's club. Mrs. Thompson gave a very interesting account of her recent visit to the General Federated Woman's club convention in Fort Worth, Texas. Two million women belong to the Federated clubs. Illinois was recognized as a leader in Indian Welfare work, although there are no Indian settlements inside the state line. Illinois is first in conservation work, the 13th District clubs of Illinois were first in the Blanket Fund drive and third in the Ambulance Fund drive. The convention endorsed the religion resolution, that religion be taught in all schools of the United States. Everyone enjoyed Mrs. Thompson's report of the convention and you wished you could have enjoyed it along with her.

Mrs. Blanche Durkes gave an interesting report of the state Woman's club convention held in the Hotel Sherman last week. Indian girls were present at this convention that had been benefited by the Indian Welfare Department and exhibits were shown from schools that profited by the Penny Art Fund. The local club donates yearly to both of these departments.

Mrs. Chiles thanked the club for the fine cooperation which she had received during her year and for the gift presented to her by the club. She then introduced the new president, Mrs. Alice Schafer, who introduced the past presidents, the executive board and department chairmen.

The officers of the Franklin Grove Woman's club for the ensuing year are:
